

KAISER'S HEIR REPORTED TO BE LEADING ARMY AGAINST CZAR

coast, but a similar slight advance for the Germans to the south.

Diminute has changed hands repeatedly during the fighting marking the advance of the Germans to pierce the allied lines and reach the coast.

Following is the text of the report:

"On our left wing the fighting was resumed yesterday morning between Nieuport and the Lys with a very great degree of severity.

"Generally speaking our front was maintained in spite of the violence and the strength of the German attacks directed against certain of our points of support.

"To the north of Nieuport we were even able to recapture Lombaert and advance beyond this town, but toward the end of the day the Germans succeeded in taking possession of Diminute. We still hold our positions in the approaches of this town, along the canal from Nieuport to Tys, which has been firmly occupied. The fighting was very hot at these places.

"The British troops, attacked also at several points, succeeded everywhere in stopping the enemy.

"On the rest of the front the general situation shows no change with the exception of slight progress by our forces to the north of Soissons and in the region west of Vailly, on the right bank of the Aisne. Outside of these two points the state of the weather permitted only minor engagements, which resulted successfully for us. Particularly at Coincourt, three kilometers north of the Forest of Parroy, we routed a detachment of the enemy."

Crown Prince Sent to Fight Czar, Is the Report From Petrograd

PARIS, Nov. 11 (Associated Press).—The Petrograd correspondent of the Matin telegraphs the following:

"It is reported that after a council of war presided over by the Kaiser the Crown Prince was appointed Commander-in-Chief of all the German and Austrian armies operating against Russia, with Gen. von Hindenburg commanding the left wing and Gen. Dankl the right."

The German Crown Prince has been in command of the army operating around Verdun. For two months this army has been attempting to capture that French fortress. There have been frequent reports from French and British sources that the Crown Prince's army had been defeated. There have also been reports of movements toward Metz, which is the base of the Crown Prince's army.

A week or two ago it was stated that the Kaiser's heir was operating in Russian Poland. If he has been put in command of the armies fighting against Russia it may mean that the advance of the Czar's armies is at last giving Germany real concern and that a supreme effort is to be made to halt its progress on German soil.

THREE GERMAN GENERALS CAPTURED BY RUSSIANS, SAYS BRITISH WRITER

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Daily Telegraph's "other-order" wires from Moscow:

"In a fight near Lada, on the river Wartha, the Russians captured the commander of the Seventeenth German Army Corps, Gen. von Mahensen, with his staff. Gen. von Liebert, who was the commander at Lada during the occupation of that town by the Germans, also is reported to be a prisoner.

"A Petrograd despatch says that according to a Lada telegram the Russian troops captured at Lada Gen. Mathies and his staff."

FOUR GERMAN WARSHIPS SEEN STEAMING NORTH OFF COAST OF CHILE

LEMA, Peru, Nov. 11.—A telegram from Talca, Chile, says that a steamer carrying three reports that when off Coquimbo, Chile, she sighted four German warships steaming north.

Coquimbo is about 300 miles south of Talca, and, allowing for the time of the steamer's passage between the two ports, the warships may have been seen on Saturday or Sunday. Coquimbo is about 450 miles north of Carapel, off which the naval engagement of Nov. 1 was fought.

RUSSIAN ARMIES SWEEP ON AGAINST KAISER'S TROOPS

Not a Man to Be Withdrawn in Fight With Turks, Petrograd Reports.

BIG FIGHT LYCK REGION.

German Reinforcements Reported Hurrying Toward Posen and Thorn.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 11 (United Press).—The task of dealing with Turkey in the East will in no way cause a slackening of the pressure being exerted against the German front.

Everywhere the advance of the Russians into East Prussia and Posen Province continues, it is declared here, and the momentum of the enormous forces of the Czar having been gained, it will be checked, even though a portion of the army should be withdrawn for a movement against the Turks.

It is the belief in Petrograd that the great Russian army will fight its way through East Prussia, Galicia and Posen by force of its own weight of numbers. Reports from the front declare it is evident that the Kaiser is rushing reinforcements to his Eastern front from Belgium. Men of commands reported a week ago to be fighting in Flanders have been taken prisoners in East Prussia, it is declared.

An official statement from the War Office declares the German right flank in East Prussia, after stubborn resistance in the region of Lyck, has been pushed back toward the Masurian Lakes. Russians have also reached Mickow in an advance toward Cracow. In Galicia they have crossed the Wisloka and occupied Rzeszow, Synow and Lisko.

Reports to the War Office declare the Germans are rushing reinforcements toward Thorn and Posen. All railroad lines are given over to the transportation of troops, which are being concentrated in the line of the Russian advance.

LONDON, Nov. 11 (United Press).—The Governor of Sierra Leone, the British possession on the West Coast of Africa, has transmitted to the Colonial Office letters from various Mohammedan chieftains, all of whom declare the loyalty of their people.

"We are incessantly praying that Allah grant victory to England," is a typical expression of the Moslem leaders.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Athens says:

"It is learned that a conspiracy has broken out in Constantinople against the Germans and Young Turks. The chief conspirators were arrested and shot.

"The population of the Ottoman capital, becoming excited as a result of the Turkish defeats on Sunday, visited reinforcements on a number of German non-commissioned officers.

BERLIN (via wireless to Hayville, L. I.), Nov. 11 (United Press).—Reports from Cernowitz to-day declared an important movement of Russian troops in progress in Rumania and East Galicia. The movement is apparently directed against Turkey, it is declared.

From Vienna it is reported that Russians threw shells into Cernowitz Monday, but the batteries were soon silenced. An advance guard action before the city resulted in the retreat of the Russians.

LOSS OF OFFICERS BY GERMANS IS NOW PUT AT 70 PER CENT.

PARIS, Nov. 11 (Associated Press).—A Havas Agency despatch from Petrograd says:

"It is estimated here that during the recent fighting in East Prussia the Germans lost 70 per cent. of their officers. From Oct. 23 to Nov. 6 the total Russian captures amounted to 221 officers, 17,500 soldiers, 4 mortars, 52 cannons, 52 quickfiring and a large amount of munitions of war, including a quantity of provisions."

PARIS, Nov. 11 (Associated Press).—The Netherlands military authorities have issued orders that all foreign newspaper correspondents leave the province of Zeeland.

German Losses, Up to October, Reached Terrible Total of 509,000.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Times correspondent at Copenhagen says that Germany's official list of killed, wounded and missing officers and men gives a total of 509,000.

One list alone, he says, contains 29,381 names. Most of the losses date from September, some thousands from August and only a few from October.

In the course of the entire civil war the Federal losses, in dead alone, from wounds and diseases, totalled 348,944. The Confederate death losses, from a partial list, reached 122,221, a total of 471,165. The German loss of 509,000 does not, of course, mean that many have died, for many are prisoners and thousands of the slightly wounded have returned to the front.

LODY SHOT AS SPY IN LONDON TOWER; GAME TO THE LAST

First Execution in Historic Building Since 1747—Body Buried There.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Saying only "Sentence was duly confirmed," official announcement is made of the execution of Carl Hans Lody, alias Charles A. Inglis, who was found guilty by a court-martial of a charge of espionage on Nov. 2.

A firing squad of eight men "confirmed the sentence" just as dawn was breaking last Friday morning. Seated in a chair against a wall of the miniature ride range of London Tower, Lody looked his arms and crossed his legs, looking squarely at the sergeant in command of the squad.

He refused to be blindfolded and to the last he preserved the imperturbable silence that marked his composure throughout the three days of his trial.

There had been no previous execution at the Tower since 1747, when Lord Lovat was beheaded for his part in the rebellion which was crushed the previous year at Culloden. Scotland. Lody, did not far from the spot where Anne Boleyn was beheaded. His body subsequently was buried within the precincts of the Tower.

Lody was twenty-eight years old and a Lieutenant in the reserve of the German navy. Last year he served aboard the Kaiser's racing yacht Meteor, and the espionage of which he was convicted embraced the keeping track of the movements of the British fleet in the North Sea. He testified that while he was to do this he had been warned not to "spy."

SEALED UP IN BOX CAR 21 DAYS WITHOUT FOOD

Man Alive When Found, but Hair Turned White by Sufferings on Railroad Journey.

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., Nov. 11.—After an involuntary fast of twenty-one days in a sealed box car, R. H. Gardner, a machinist of Cleveland, was released here to-day. He was unconscious and his hair had turned white.

Gardner was accompanying a carload of machinery from Vroburg, Md., to Harrison, Pa., the destination of which was later changed to this city.

CATTLE PLAGUE SPREADS AMONG $2,500,000 HERD.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Spread of foot and mouth disease among the $2,500,000 herd of cattle under quarantine at the Chicago Union Stock Yards assumed such alarming proportions to-day that it was feared the infection could not be prevented from spreading to every animal in the herd. The cattle are valued at $2,500,000.

Dr. E. E. Bennett of the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry said that forty new cases have been discovered among the herd. The newly infected cows were separated from the isolated herd and taken to the veterinary hospital, where fifty-two other cases from the Dairy Show stock are under treatment.

Dr. Bennett said that consent would not be given to destroy the animals until there is no hope of saving them.

SHOT HIS WIFE NINE TIMES.

After Killing Woman, Husband Fired Bullet Into Own Head.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 11.—George H. Neely of Richmond, Ind., a traveling agent, shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Estelle B. Neely, and committed suicide in the Terminal Hotel here to-day. Two letters in the woman's traveling bag indicated that she planned to divorce her husband and wed a Tulsa, Okla., man, who signed his letters "Bill."

Mrs. Neely was shot nine times, seven shots striking near her heart and two in her right arm. Neely fired a bullet from his left hand into his chest.

A telegram indicated that Neely's Western headquarters as a salesman were in Tulsa.

Rebels' Bomb Kills 12 in China.

CANTON, China, Nov. 11.—Another bomb outrage committed by Chinese revolutionists occurred to-day outside the residence of Gen. Chi-Kuang-Lung, who is in charge of the Canton district. Thirteen persons were killed.

BANKER TELLS HOW SIEGEL GOT $100,000 THROUGH STATEMENT

marked by the care with which he went into check and ledger transactions. The question he asked the juryman to answer was:

"Can a man lose $100,000 and not know it?" and he had chart after chart unrolled before the jury in graphic inquiry. There was nothing categorical about Mr. Train's address. He seemed, rather, to take the jury beside his knee to explain in the simplest, clearest language the points he will eventually seek to prove by his witnesses. Often he dropped into the vernacular of the farmer to emphasize a statement.

The juryman listened to him with every indication of interest and attention. In closing Mr. Train said:

"When Henry Siegel at last found himself in such a predicament that he could not have an honorable failure without his false pretenses to the bank becoming known he called into his office his private secretary, McMeekin, an old man, loyal to his employer, and said to him:

"MADE INQUIRY ABOUT EXTRA-DITION TREATIES."

"McMeekin, go over to the public library and find out what countries there are in the world where I can go and where I can't be brought back to this country; find out what countries have no extradition treaty with the United States."

"And McMeekin said in reply: 'Mr. Siegel, you'd better get your lawyer to do that.'"

Oscar A. Prall, Treasurer of the Fourteenth Street Store and Henry Siegel's right-hand man in the financial operations in which the Siegel enterprises became so involved that they came crashing down in a ruin of millions, has turned State's evidence.

Prall will take the witness stand and make a clean breast of all the transactions of the Siegel stores in which he had a part, according to Mr. Train. He will tell of the manufacture of a complete set of false books for the Fourteenth Street Store and of the falsifications of accounts and inventories of merchandise extending over many years.

The announcement of Prall's testimony in the people's behalf was made to-day by Assistant District Attorney Train in his address to the jury. In this address Mr. Train related the entire story of the Siegel high finance, and told of Henry Siegel's now realized fear that he would lose his business and his life.

"If he did not borrow money and keep going," Mr. Train said, "State prison stared him in the face."

The charge against Siegel is that he and Vogel induced the National Bank of Commerce to lend the Fourteenth Street Store $100,000 by representing to the officers of the bank that the store was a prosperous concern, that it was making money and that its assets exceeded its liabilities, when in point of fact it had lost over $1,500,000 and was losing a quarter of a million dollars each year.

Later, it is charged, Siegel and Vogel, after receiving the money, Siegel and Vogel asked for a receipt for the store; it was sold and its creditors will get fifteen cents on the dollar. In other words, Siegel and Vogel got from the bank $100,000 and gambled it away in the Siegel stores, but they represented that business to be as solvent as the Bank of England, and they paid themselves $100,000 in salaries for doing it. They put their names to false statements, and by means of those false statements they cheated the bank out of its money. Such statements are the gold bricks of high finance.

"The three features of the case to which we shall invite your particular attention in the proof are these: "First—Did Siegel and Vogel lie to the officers of the National Bank of Commerce?

"Second—Did they get the bank's money by means of these lies?

"Third—Did they know they were lying?"

The State will answer those three questions in affirmative with incontrovertible mathematical proof.

"In 1909 Siegel and Vogel, finding that they had one good store, one doubtful one and one a failure on their hands, conceived the idea of amalgamating them in one concern to be known as the Siegel Stores Corporation, incorporating the concern for a large amount and getting capital by the sale of stock to float these three stores and incidentally to get ready money to cover up the tremendous losses in Boston.

"The combined capital stock of the Chicago store and the two New York stores amounted to $4,500,000, but they capitalized the holding company at $10,000,000 and sold large quantities of preferred stock to investors abroad in this country. The common stock they took themselves in exchange for their holdings in the three stores.

"The only way these stores could have been kept afloat was through money procured from the bank of Henry Siegel & Co., bankers. This money, composed of the savings of their depositors, Siegel distributed to the three stores. And the stores lent it to each other and to Siegel and Vogel, who in turn loaned the money back and in and out and this way that way until finally in one way and another most of the money reached the Boston store and disappeared forever.

When Mr. Train came to his elucidation of the alleged conspiracy into which Siegel and Vogel entered to obtain money to keep the enterprises afloat, he had a great chart arranged of a sort of shade roller, hung on a high rack at the end of the jury box. It showed Siegel and Vogel as two discs at the top of the chart with the enterprises connected up to them in other discs as old-fashioned family bills were once started. Mr. Train said that Siegel's counsel objected to Mr. Train's opening address and moved to strike it out; also he again moved for the dismissal of the indictment of his client. Both motions were denied.

Mr. Howell then told of the opening in 1904 or 1905 of the checking account of the Siegel Stores. Siegel had said that his bank had been accustomed to discount the notes of the store. His first meeting with Siegel, he said, was on April 3, 1913. At that time, he said, he had a talk with Siegel upon a letter and a statement of the financial condition of the Fourteenth Street Store as of Feb. 1, 1913, which he had received on Feb. 14.

The witness then told of financial statements from the Siegel Stores submitted by Siegel to the bank. These statements claimed that the stores were doing a business of $5,000,000 a year and that their capital was intact.

CHILD MURDER DONE HERE WITH IMPUNITY, WITNESS DECLARES

Prof. Ewing, Pathologist, Scores Work of Coroners at Inquiry.

Dr. William H. Guilfoyle, Registrar of Records in the Health Department, and Prof. James Ewing, noted pathologist of Cornell University, both testified to-day to inadequate methods in the Board of Coroners at the inquiry into the operations of that body. Dr. Guilfoyle charged the Coroners' physicians with keeping inaccurate records of deaths reported to the Health Department.

"In the majority of cases of accident, suicide and homicide the cause of death is not reported," Dr. Guilfoyle swore, "while in cases of natural death the cause is often guessed at."

Prof. Ewing explained the present Coroners' system is inadequate chiefly because the member so fits board and its staff are men untrained in medico-legal work.

"Do you consider that child murder is done with any degree of frequency in New York City, and with more or less impunity?" asked Commissioner Wallstein.

"I most certainly do," was Prof. Ewing's reply.

a sound until five minutes after he had disappeared. Then he went out the window and down the fire escape.

Mr. Jewett discovered that $15 in money was all the burglar had taken. Mr. Jewett visited the West Side Prison yesterday and was shown Joseph Doane, or Dunoff, of No. 245 Sixteenth street, Brooklyn, one of the two highwaymen captured after the shooting and robbery of jeweler Max Ernest at Columbus avenue and Eighty-seventh street on Nov. 5. Mr. Jewett positively identified Doane as his midnight visitor.

Though detectives kept a close watch on the Speyer apartment, following the reporting of the first burglary last Friday morning at about 3 o'clock, Henry Ruhlender, a partner of James Speyer, whose rooms are on the sixth floor of the building, was aroused by the noise of some one moving about in his room. He switched on the light above his bed, which disclosed three masked men in the room. The instant the light appeared they whirled on him, two presenting revolvers at his head.

"Turn off the light or we'll shoot!" one growled and the light went off. While one of the three burglars kept Mr. Ruhlender constantly covered with a revolver, the other two hurriedly explored his clothes. They took from them $10 in cash, but, as it by design, overlooked a gold watch, some diamond studded cuff links and other jewels on the dresser top.

When they had finished the man who was keeping the victim covered allowed the other two to get out via the fire escape while he continued on guard. Then warning Mr. Ruhlender not to make a move, he backed to the window and disappeared. So stunned was he by his experience that Mr. Ruhlender did not even telephone to the police for several minutes after his visitors had departed.
